featuring Rakhi McCormick

SATURDAY, December 5

10am-12pm in the Gym

Rakhi will give two talks. The first on the indwelling of Christ in us. The second talk will be on reflecting light and how we do that in our everyday lives.

Rakhi is a wife and mother currently working in parish ministry in Metro Detroit all while trying to keep up with her husband of 11 years, three young children, and a small creative business. She is a first-generation Indian-American and a convert from Hinduism. Rakhi's greatest joy is speaking light into darkness and encouraging others to discover their identity in Christ using the gifts they possess. She uses the varied experiences of her life as her inspiration as an artist, a writer, and a speaker. When not chasing her children, you can find Rakhi singing, hanging out on Instagram (@rakstardesigns), recording her podcast while troubleshooting technical issues in a single bound, and making beautiful things and messes.
